Rick Anson's BrainIQ Health Sciences Innovates Weight Loss, Weight Management, and Metabolic Wellness with Oral-Sublingual GLP-1 Fast Melts

Written by Riley George

In a healthcare landscape increasingly dominated by injectables, a next-generation metabolic weight loss disruptor is emerging from the world of bioscience and advanced medical nutrition. Rick Anson, founder of BrainIQ Health Sciences, is drawing on decades of experience in the pharmaceutical industry to develop a portfolio of drug-free “pharmaceutical-grade” dietary supplements and medical foods designed to offer safer, more effective alternatives to traditional drug therapies but with similar health benefits as drugs.

Anson's flagship innovation is GLP-1 Fast Melts, a line of oral sublingual, clinically proven metabolic wellness products aimed squarely at the multibillion-dollar weight-loss market, currently saturated with injectable GLP-1 agonists.

A Career Shaped by Competitive Edge

Anson's journey into the world of novel ingredients and pharmaceutical-grade products began unexpectedly on the soccer field. Growing up in Idaho and playing Division I soccer in California, he sought a competitive advantage that led him overseas.

“I went to Europe and played semi-pro looking for any competitive edge I could find,” Anson recalled. “Back then, there just weren't all the modalities and technology we have now.”

This quest for a physical and mental edge—to “think a little faster, jump a little higher, run a little quicker”—drove him to gain experience working for several pharmaceutical companies. It was here that he gained a deep understanding of different pharmaceutical ingredients and their functions. “I worked with three major pharmaceutical companies in Europe, learning how novel ingredients function in the body,” Anson said, noting the core idea behind his future work. “When products are pharmaceutical-grade, it comes down to purity, potency, and advanced absorption.”

After returning to the United States, Anson leveraged this expertise to found Wellness Labs, creating products initially sold into global network marketing companies. His trajectory then shifted profoundly after partnering with several food, pharmaceutical, and bioscience companies, leading him to compound peptides and gain firsthand knowledge of the rapidly emerging GLP-1 drug market and the inherent limitations of GLP-1 injectable drugs.

The Birth of an Oral GLP-1 Game Changer

Sublingual Fast Melts and the future of metabolic health

Seeing the demand for GLP-1 weight-loss drugs — and limitations — of injectable GLP-1 drugs, Anson created a safer, long-term oral alternative: GLP-1 Fast Melts.

“Twenty-five percent of Americans won’t take injections, and nearly half quit GLP-1 drugs within weeks due to side effects and poor adherence,” Anson explains.

This insight led to BrainIQ Health Sciences and its flagship innovation: a clinic-backed sublingual GLP-1 solution for weight loss and long-term management.

The product’s ingredients boast compelling clinical results:

- 28.1 pounds of weight loss in 10 weeks
- 6.7 inches of waist reduction in 10 weeks
- 16% lower body composition change over 10 weeks
- 27% lower LDL cholesterol in 10 weeks

“A new era of metabolic weight loss without injections.”

The Triple-Action Advantage

1 Satiety Support

The Fast Melts help mimic the natural effects of GLP-1 by influencing key hunger-regulating hormones, including leptin — the body’s primary “satiety hormone.” This helps promote faster fullness and longer-lasting appetite control.

2 Thermogenic Activation

The formula is designed to stimulate thermogenesis, increasing metabolic rate and calorie burning throughout the day for continuous metabolic support.

3 Fat Cell Shrinkage

Beyond appetite and metabolism, the Fast Melts target adipose tissue directly, helping reduce the physical size of fat cells for improved body composition. Together, these three mechanisms deliver a comprehensive, science-driven approach to modern weight management.

A Drug Companion and a Lifelong Solution

A Drug Companion and Lifelong Solution
GLP-1 Fast Melts can be used as a standalone weight-loss and weight-maintenance solution or alongside GLP-1 injections. As a drug companion, they help support appetite control and adherence between injection cycles.

A Broader Vision: Pharmaceutical-Grade Wellness
BrainIQ Health Sciences offers a full portfolio of advanced-absorption products for weight loss, pain management, cognitive performance, sleep, and NAD+ support—all built on the same pharmaceutical-grade technology for purity and potency.

“BrainIQ Health products are formulated for advanced absorption through the mucous membranes in the mouth, helping bypass the gut and liver,” said Anson.

Aligning with National Health Goals

BrainIQ Health Sciences supports national metabolic health initiatives by delivering accessible, non-injectable wellness solutions. In partnership with leading universities and a U.S.-based peptide company, BrainIQ also offers advanced peptide therapies for clinical wellness.
